

Students in my neuroscience class studying the anatomy of the brain, with our new models and their books. This is a new class in our new PT curriculum.

Sunrise over the water on the coast of San Pedro, seen from a bike ride one morning.

A beautiful runner made by a friend of mine here in Santa Fe as a gift to a friend.

Here I am sitting with Dona Gloria and her daughter Carmen in front of their homes in Santa Fe, sector Cascarajicara.

At our parish Christmas 'dinner', some of the fellows set up a dominos table in the upstairs parish hall.

Bishop William Skilton celebrating the Eucharist at a service in honor of his 50 years of ordained service to our Lord!

The flag team from Iglesia Episcopal Santa Cruz in the parade heading in to the consecration service of our new bishop co-adjutor.

Fr. Felix and other clergy are leading our new bishop coadjutor, who is in white behind them.
Rt. Rev. Moises Quezada Mota.

Our Presiding Bishop, Rt. Rev. Michael Curry, is bringing up the rear of the procession for the consecration service.

